4.2. The Seller may deliver Products in advance of the delivery date. The delivery times are approximations and depend on the timely receipt of the necessary information by the Seller to fulfill the Contract without interruption. If the products delivered do not conform in quantity, type or price with the ones indicated on the delivery note or the concerned document, the Purchaser should notify the Seller within a period of eight (8) working days from the receipt of the Products. The Seller and the Manufacturer (in their case) do not guarantee that the Products lack defects, that they will work without interruption, meet the expectations of the Purchaser, or will work correctly in combination with the hardware or software of the products of third parties (except for the Specified Computing Devices, as established in the Technical Documentation or License Agreement), nor that all the errors of the Products will be corrected. The use of the products in environmental conditions higher than 95% humidity will not be covered.

5.2. The Software Products are delivered and provided to the Purchaser under the guarantees established in the corresponding License Agreement and the minimum required by the regulations in force in the territory of the Purchaser at the time.

5.3. Any additional guarantee granted by a Seller that is not the Manufacturer will be the sole responsibility of said Seller.

5.4. If any defect exists in a Product or in the Technical Documentation, when the Purchaser may have knowledge of this, they will undertake to document it (or in this case, reproduce it) and bring it to the attention of the Seller and/or Manufacturer as soon as possible.

5.5. The Seller and/or the Manufacturer may resolve the problems affecting the substantial functioning of the Products (indicated in the Technical Documentation), using reasonable means and time limits. Notwithstanding the above, the Seller and the Manufacturer are not responsible for problems that external technical resources may cause to the correct functioning of the Products (especially but not only if such external resources have not been recommended in the Technical Documentation.)

5.6. For a defect in a Product to be sufficiently material so that the Seller or the Manufacturer are obligated to repair or replace the Product, the defect has to make the Product (as long as it is used in a manner allowed in this Contract and conforming to the Technical Documentation) work in a way that is so divergent from the Technical Documentation that it would make it inappropriate for the purpose described in the same. Also, if the required functionality can be achieved by the Purchaser in an indirect way or through an alternative form that circumvents the problem, then the damage shall not constitute a defect that places obligations on the Seller or the Manufacturer under this warranty.

5.7. The Purchaser shall not carry out modifications or repairs on their own nor allow such modifications to be carried out by unauthorized third parties. At the request of the Seller and/or Manufacturer, the Purchaser will support them in the analysis of the causes and conditions that give rise to a defect, as well as in the development and the test of correction codes or in an indirect alternative solution.

5.8. The only remedies in the event of Product defects are those of the express warranty referred to in this clause.

5.9. It is the responsibility of the Purchaser to verify that the products meet their needs. The Purchaser, without prejudice to the responsibility that corresponds to the Seller or the Manufacturer under the mandatory law, bear all the risks of implementation and the results obtained by the same and its suitability for the expected use.

5.10. It is understood that the Seller and the Manufacturer are released from their obligations under the expressed warranty when the defect has been caused by circumstances for which they are not responsible, including, without being limited to (on part of the Purchaser): (a) breach of the relevant License Agreements of the Software Products, and in particular the instructions contained in the Technical Documentation; (b) failure to comply with the provisions of this License; (c) unauthorized modification or interference with the Products either on part of the Purchaser or a third party; (d) errors in the use of the Products on the part of the Purchaser or third party personnel; (e) influences from systems or programs that have not been supplied by the Manufacturer; (f) use of the Product Software on a computing device that is not a Specified Computing Device.

5.11. IN THE EVENT THAT CONSUMER PROTECTION LAW APPLIES TO THE SALE/S OF THE PRODUCTS TO THE PURCHASER, THE MANUFACTURER ASSUMES THE COMPULSORY MANUFACTURER WARRANTY UNDER THE TERMS OF THE MANDATORY LAW OF THE TARGET TERRITORY FOR A MAXIMUM PERIOD OF TWO YEARS.

5.12. For clarification purposes, the warranties set out in this Contract do not cover replacements or repairs resulting from normal wear and tear of materials, damage or accidents from negligence, lack of monitoring or maintenance or improper use of the equipment.

5.13. Replacements: The Purchaser shall notify the Seller (at the address indicated in the product documentation) that the Product does not work properly. In the case that the Seller accepts the replacement of the Product based on this warranty or stipulated by the law, the Purchaser must return the defective equipment to the Manufacturer. To this end the Purchaser shall request an authorization number from the Seller, without which the returned product will not be admitted. The Seller will then send a replacement along with a corresponding invoice. The Purchaser is obligated to pay the price of the replacement Product as well as the related expenses if, upon receipt of the defective Product and after examining it, the Manufacturer determines that the original Product is out of warranty or that it did not function due to poor installation or manipulation by the Purchaser. Otherwise, the Seller will issue an invoice for payment of the replacement equipment.

5.14. Repairs: Any repairs outside the present warranty or the one stipulated by law may be budgeted and submitted for acceptance on the Purchaser's request. When a budget is not requested, the Manufacturer shall send directly to the Purchaser the corresponding invoice for the performed repair. Before sending the Product to the Manufacturer for repair, the Purchaser must apply for an authorization number from the Manufacturer, without which the Product will not be admitted. Elements or components substituted and/or repaired outside the warranty are guaranteed for six months under the terms of this clause.

6. LIMITATION OF LIABILITY

6.1. Except in cases of gross negligence or willful misconduct, the Seller's total liability shall not exceed the price of the Contract, or the price of each particular order for all claims arising from or related to that request.

6.2. The Seller and/or the Manufacturer will not be responsible for the loss of earnings, the loss of the use of equipment or systems, business interruption, cost of replacement power, cost of capital, cost of downtime, increases in operating costs, indirect damages, or claims of the customers of the Purchaser to any of the aforementioned types of damages.

6.3. If the Purchaser provides Products or Services to a third party, or uses the Products at the facilities of a third party, the Purchaser shall indemnify and hold harmless the Seller and the Manufacturer to each and every claim and liability that the third party could demand and which exceeds the limits established in this Contract.

6.4. The limitations of this Clause shall apply regardless of whether a claim is based on a contract, warranty, has a compensatory nature, or it derives from civil extra-contractual liability (including negligence), strict liability or otherwise, and shall prevail over any conflicting term, except insofar as these terms add further restriction to the liability of the Seller and/or Manufacturer.

6.5. The Seller and the Manufacturer will be exonerated from liability in the event that the Purchaser does not comply with the obligations under this Contract or the Software Products License Agreement.

6.6. Neither the Seller nor the Manufacturer shall have responsibility to ensure that the Purchaser possesses the necessary knowledge for the proper accomplishment of the purposes of this present Contract or aspects not covered in the same like the installation and use of the Products. Neither the Seller nor the Manufacturer will be liable for problems or defects that may arise as a result of inadequate knowledge by the Purchaser of the Products or their installation or use.

6.7. The Seller and/or Manufacturer will only be liable for losses or damages caused by their own (and respective) seriously negligent or wilful actions. This limitation of liability applies to all claims for losses or damages regardless of their legal basis, including, without being limited to, claims based on extra-contractual, contractual, pre-contractual or quasi-contractual liability.

6.8. In any case, the Seller and the Manufacturer shall be released from liability with regard to the Purchaser, in relation to the Products that: (a) have been modified by the Purchaser or a third party; (b) are used with other programs or data and such combination has led to an infringement of rights of a third party; (c) have been used in a computing device that is not a Computing Device Specified in the Technical Documentation; or (d) have been used and applied under other conditions different than those specified in the Technical Documentation.

6.9. The validity of the warranties and responsibilities, or their limitations, established in this Contract, will be subject to the provisions in respect to the mandatory law that affects them in the different States and/or Jurisdictions.
